ROBOT PETS

iCat

iCat is an intelligent robot which is fun for children and adults. It has a camera in its nose and two microphones in its feet so it can listen and understand voices. It can't walk or chase mice like a real cat, but it can play simple board games by telling you where to move the pieces. Also, iCat can change its expression by moving its eyes and mouth. It can show you when it's happy, sad or bored, etc. This way it seems like it has a real personality. It's been shown that people prefer to play games with a robot with a personality than just a computer. It is also very polite and always asks if it's OK for it to go to sleep, for example.

Pleo

Pleo is a small robot dinosaur, but it isn't dangerous. It is small, very cute and it behaves like a baby. However, it is very intelligent and it develops a personality the more you play with it. It has two cameras for eyes and it can also touch and hear. It listens to people's voices and makes noises and moves around to show that it understands. You can connect Pleo to your computer and download new actions or sounds. It runs on batteries and goes to sleep when it's tired.

1. The iCat behaves like a real cat.
2. Pleo reacts to human voices.
3. Pleo has to be connected to a computer all the time.
4. Both robot pets have a personality that doesn't change.

5th June is World Environment Day (WED). Every year since 1973, people get together to discuss issues that have to do with the environment. They try to find ways to encourage a greener lifestyle, help save energy and reduce our carbon footprint, and take measures to save animal habitats around the world.

The news, however, isn't good. It seems that despite the efforts to save the planet, the situation is actually getting worse. The reason behind this is that the global population is increasing, and is now over 7 billion. This means that the need for food, energy and clean water is also going up. In fact, it is twice as high as in 1996. Experts say that by 2030, we will need two Earths to cover our needs in energy because we'll need to produce more food for a lot more people. In 2012, the WED was organised in Brazil and it was celebrated in many countries around the world in different ways. Find out what you can do now by contacting the World Environment Day's website and check out the activities that take place in your country. You can also plan an Environment Day at school or in your area and, more importantly, make your lifestyle greener today.

1. The first World Environment Day took place in Brazil.
2. The situation is not improving because we are not making an effort.
3. We need more energy now than in the past.
4. In 2030 things may get better.
5. You can find more information about WED online.

Subject: Problems with brother

Hello Keith,

How are you? I haven't had anyone to talk to about my problems since you left. At the moment I've got a serious problem and need your help.

It's to do with my brother Andy. Last week I took his camera without asking and I lost it. I haven't told him yet, but he's going to find out soon. You see, he's going to Egypt next week and he's going to need it. What should I do? If I tell him, he'll get really angry. And you know how Andy is when he's upset. He'll never let me borrow any of his things again. Unfortunately, there's more. Next weekend, there's a great festival in the park and I don't want to miss it. The problem is I haven't got anything cool to wear. So, I was thinking of borrowing something from Andy. But if he finds out about the camera, I can forget it. What do you suggest I do? If I had the money, I would buy him a new camera, but I haven't got any. What would you do if you were me?

Write back as soon as possible.

Yours,
Brad

My Agritourism HolidayDay 1

Philip and I arrived at the farm. It wasn't as luxurious as it looked in the brochure and there was an unpleasant smell. Mr Adams, the farmer, and his family were very friendly and also very organised. We put our things away and got straight to work. We spent the afternoon cleaning out the stables and we were exhausted by the evening. But dinner was delicious.

Day 2

We were woken up very early and Mr Adams asked us to help him with the cows before breakfast. Philip got completely covered in mud, and he began to realise he had packed the wrong clothes. It was more work after breakfast, but in the afternoon we had some time to kill. We went for a walk and enjoyed the beautiful scenery.

Day 3

In the morning, we planted vegetables and my hands hurt from using the spade. But it was a waste of time because we had done it all wrong, and Mr Adams asked us to do it again. In the afternoon, we built a new shed, which was an unbelievable experience. We're getting used to the smell now and the holiday is turning into a very enjoyable experience.

Keith: Hey, did you know that a new gym opened on Rose Road last week?

Jake: Yeah. I heard about it. New gyms open all the time, but they aren't all that great. Is this one any good?

Keith: Well, I haven't been there yet. But I saw a poster as I was coming here. It seems to offer quite a lot.

Jake: Really? Like what? Has it got weights and ...

Keith: Of course, silly. All gyms have got weights and treadmills.

Jake: Oh, OK. What about yoga classes? I really want to try it.

Keith: I don't know about yoga. The poster said that there are lots of classes, like aerobics. You like that kind of exercise, don't you?

Jake: Yeah, of course.

Keith: Oh. There are also personal trainers who can help you work out. And that's included in the price, too.

Jake: I see. It sounds good, but it must be quite expensive.

Keith: Well, it's 50 euros a month.

Jake: That's 600 euros a year! You can't be serious!

Keith: Calm down. If you sign up for a year, it's only 250 euros.

Jake: That's better. Hey. Why don't we go and have a look?

Keith: Sure. What's the time?

Jake: It's nine o'clock.

Keith: Oh. It's just closed. We can go tomorrow.

Jake: Oh, OK. What time?

Keith: Tomorrow is Sunday, so it closes at 11.

Jake: Fine, then. Let's go around 10 o'clock, after my Spanish class.

LISTENING TRANSCRIPT

Good evening, this is the six o'clock news. Police have been investigating the robbery of the Regal Bank on King's Street which took place last Tuesday. They have been questioning Gary Smith, the man who was arrested as he was leaving the bank. €300,000 was found in his backpack and police now know that he wasn't working alone. One of the main reasons is that there's still €100,000 missing from the bank. Their investigation points to the security guard, John Green, who disappeared the day of the robbery. The bank manager told the authorities that the guard was new to the job and that he saw the two men talking. More questions need to be answered and police are now looking closely at the security cameras. On to other news now. A man with...

Host: OK, back to tonight's phone-in, which is about cultural differences. Next on the line is Derek from Watford.

Derek: Hello, Steve.

Host: So, what's your story, Derek?

Derek: Well, I invited my new Brazilian neighbours round for dinner. We spent all day preparing food and a delicious dessert. But when I asked them if they liked the food, they didn't really say much, and I was bit offended. All they kept doing was touching their ears a lot.

Host: That's strange.

Derek: It was only later that I realised that pulling your ear means you like something a lot in Brazil.

Host: I see, so all that hard work didn't go to waste. Nice one, Derek. Right, now we have Ian from Rochester. Hi, Ian!

Ian: Hi there, Steve. My story comes from summer camp last year. My Greek roommate John and I are great friends now, but when we first met, we had a bit of an argument. I asked to borrow his camera and he just raised his eyebrows. I didn't understand and he didn't say 'no', so I just took it. He got really angry, and after arguing about it for a while, I realised that the gesture meant 'no'.

Host: I didn't know that. Always good to learn these things. Who's next? It's Ken from York.

Ken: Hi, Steve. I just wanted to point out how long people shake hands for in different countries. I mean, just a few seconds is enough, in my opinion. But I met an Italian man the other week and he was shaking my hand for ages! In the end, I had to say something. I think he was a bit offended, but what could I do?

Host: That's cultural differences for you. Right, next we're going to...

LISTENING TRANSCRIPT

Harry

My parents were away for the weekend and I was at home with my brother. I remember that night because the weather was really strange. There were strong winds at first and all the windows shook. Then the rain started. It hadn't stopped by the time we went to bed. Mark, my brother, came to sleep with me because he was afraid of the lightning. In the morning, it was still raining. When we went downstairs to make breakfast, we saw there was water everywhere and not just in our house, but in all the streets, the neighbourhood, the whole village!

Alex

It was quite silly, actually. I was riding my bike home after football practice. It was late in the afternoon and it was getting dark. There was nobody in the street and suddenly, I heard someone shout! I got a bit scared and lost control of my bike. I didn't see the tree at all. I was hurt, but not badly. My bike, though, was completely destroyed.

Jack

I was at a café with my brother when, at some point, I had to go to the bathroom. The minute I walked in, the lights went out. I wasn't scared, but I couldn't see anything, so I tried to find the door and get out. I suddenly heard a loud sound of something falling on the floor. The lights came on again after a few minutes. Then I noticed a man on the floor. He was hurt. I ran out as fast as I could to get some help. Luckily, the ambulance arrived in minutes and took him to hospital.

Neil

Well, what can I say... I remember the time he ran into a house which was on fire and, all by himself, managed to rescue a five-year-old who was trapped inside. He was the town hero the next day and, of course, I was proud because he was my brother. But there are hundreds of things, both good and bad, about him. He's always confident in himself, for example, but he can be really bossy and stubborn too, sometimes.
